How Credible Coaches Create Peak Performers

To be remembered as the coach that helped an employee win on his/her professional journey is one of the most fulfilling experiences in the workplace. However to be remembered as the coach that helped an employee win on his/her life journey at the same time is even more significant. This is the difference between “good” and “great” coaching. We’ll expose the strategies for creating a positive learning environment. This workshop explores questions and provides answers to some of the most critical issues in coaching credibility and effectiveness.

PURPOSE:

Effective coaching strategies for helping others improve their performances.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

- Understand the true goal of every coach and how true success is measured.
- Identify the elements that create the most effective learning environment for improved performance;
- Discover how to use two fundamental questions to solve all performance issues.
